	SECTION A-READING (20 Marks)
Q.1.	Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow. An Encounter Late one afternoon, while walking through the park, Mia noticed an elderly man sitting alone on a bench. His clothes were old and worn, and he seemed to be lost in thought. Curiosity got the better of Mia, and she decided to approach him. “Hello, sir,” Mia said, her voice gentle. “Is everything alright?” The man looked up, his eyes brightening at the sight of someone taking an interest. “Oh, hello there,” he replied with a warm smile. “I’m just enjoying the beauty of the park and reminiscing about the past.” Mia sat down beside him, and the two began to chat. The man introduced himself as Mr. Reynolds, and he shared stories about his youth—his adventures, travels, and the joy he found in simple things like reading a good book or watching the sunset. As they talked, Mia learned that Mr. Reynolds had once been a world traveller and had seen many places. However, he chose to settle in this small town because he loved its quiet charm and the friendliness of its people. Despite his travels, he had always found a special connection with the local park, where he felt a deep sense of peace. Their conversation lasted well into the evening. Mia found Mr. Reynolds’s stories both fascinating and inspiring. Before leaving, she thanked him for sharing his experiences and promised to visit him again. Mr. Reynolds waved goodbye; his heart warmed by the unexpected encounter. Mia walked home, feeling enriched by the wisdom and kindness of a stranger. She realized that sometimes, the most meaningful connections are made in the most unexpected places.	12 marks
