Another Way of Seeing Things

Linda was having trouble seeing objects that were far away. Her mom and dad wanted the doctor to check Linda's vision. Her mom gave their name to the person at the front desk. Then the family took seats in the waiting room and her mom filled out some forms. After a few minutes, it was Linda's turn.

First, the doctor took special pictures of Linda's eyes. Then, he asked Linda some questions about her eyes. He asked if Linda's eyes ever hurt her. He also wanted to know if her eyes ever got very tired. Linda answered the doctor's questions. She told him that her eyes didn't hurt. But she also told him she had trouble seeing the board in class.

Then, it was time to check Linda's vision. The doctor showed Linda several rows of letters. He asked her to read the letters in each row. She had trouble reading the small letters. Then the doctor put special lenses in front of Linda's eyes. All of a sudden, the letters were clear! For a while, Linda and the doctor worked to find the best lenses for her. They chose the lenses that were best for Linda. The doctor wrote down which lenses they chose, and then he told Linda, "Please give this form to the opticians in the front office. They will help you pick out frames for your glasses."

Linda and her family went to the front office and took seats. When it was her turn, Linda handed the paper the doctor had given her to the optician. Then, the optician said, "It's time to pick out the frames you want to have. How about if you tell me what colours you like, and we'll get to work." Linda agreed, and soon she began trying on frames.

After a while, Linda found exactly the frames she wanted. Linda thought they looked very good on her, and her mom and dad thought so, too. "Now I'll be able to see everything," Linda said with a smile.
